This Cookie Policy explains how Watten Power Limited ("Watten Power", "we", "us", "our") uses cookies and similar technologies when you visit our website at www.wattenpower.com (the "Website"). It should be read alongside our Privacy Policy, which sets out the broader ways in which we collect and process personal information.

We are committed to being transparent about how we use cookies and to giving you meaningful control over your preferences. By continuing to use our Website, you acknowledge this policy. For cookies that require your consent, we will ask for it separately through our cookie consent banner.

1. What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your device whether a desktop computer, laptop, tablet, or smartphone when you visit a website. They are widely used to make websites work more efficiently, to remember your preferences, and to provide information to website owners.

Cookies serve a variety of purposes, including:

- ensuring the Website operates correctly and securely
- remembering choices you have previously made, such as language or display settings
- measuring how visitors interact with our Website so we can continually improve it
- enabling us to deliver content and, where consented to, advertising that is relevant to your interests

Cookies may be set either by us directly (first-party cookies) or by third-party services that operate on our Website (third-party cookies). They may be stored only for the duration of your browser session (session cookies) or for a longer, defined period (persistent cookies).

2. Categories of Cookies We Use

2.1 Strictly Necessary Cookies

These cookies are essential for the Website to function and cannot be switched off in our systems. They are set in response to actions you take, such as filling in forms, logging into secure areas, or adjusting your cookie preferences. Without these cookies, core features of the Website would not be available.

Strictly necessary cookies do not require your consent under UK law. They include:

- session management and secure login cookies
- load-balancing cookies that distribute traffic across servers
- cookies that store your consent preferences from the cookie banner
- security and fraud prevention cookies

2.2 Performance & Analytics Cookies

These cookies allow us to measure visitor traffic and understand how people move around the Website. The information gathered helps us identify pages that are performing well, diagnose technical problems, and make informed improvements to the user experience. All data collected by analytics cookies is aggregated and does not directly identify any individual.

Analytics tools we may use include Google Analytics and similar platforms. These may set cookies such as those used to assign a unique visitor identifier and to track session duration. Your consent is required before we place these cookies.

2.3 Functional Cookies

Functional cookies enable the Website to provide enhanced features and to remember choices you have made on a previous visit. This might include your preferred language, region, or display options. If these cookies are not permitted, some or all of these personalisation features will not operate as intended.

Your consent is required before we place functional cookies on your device.

2.4 Marketing & Targeting Cookies

Where you have given your consent, we may use marketing cookies to build a profile of your interests and to show you relevant content and advertisements, both on our Website and on third-party platforms. These cookies track browsing activity over time and across different websites. They also help us measure the effectiveness of our promotional campaigns.

Third-party platforms that may place marketing cookies include:

- Google Ads — for search and display advertising
- Meta (Facebook) Pixel — for social media retargeting
- LinkedIn Insight Tag — for professional audience targeting

We will never sell or share personally identifiable information with advertisers. You may withdraw your consent to marketing cookies at any time through our cookie preference centre.

4. Cookies in Connected Products and Platforms

Where Watten Power offers web-based platforms, customer portals, or dashboards linked to energy products and services, those platforms may also make use of cookies or local browser storage to:

- maintain your authenticated session while you are logged in
- store settings and preferences specific to your account or installation
- preserve the integrity of your active session
- render personalised usage data, charts, and dashboards

These cookies are strictly functional in nature and are essential to the performance of such platforms. Where personal data is processed, this is done in compliance with our Privacy Policy and applicable data protection law.

5. Legal Basis for Using Cookies

Our use of cookies is governed by the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR) and the Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations 2003 (PECR). Under these frameworks:

- strictly necessary cookies may be placed without your consent, as they are essential to the operation of the Website
- all other categories of cookie — including analytics, functional, and marketing cookies — require your clear and freely given consent before being placed on your device

You may withdraw your consent at any time without detriment. Withdrawing consent will not affect the lawfulness of any cookie use that occurred before your withdrawal.

6. Managing Your Cookie Preferences

6.1 Cookie Consent Banner

When you first visit the Website, a cookie consent banner will be displayed, giving you the opportunity to accept or decline each category of non-essential cookie. You can return to and update your preferences at any time by accessing the Cookie Settings option available on our Website.

6.2 Browser-Level Controls

All modern browsers allow you to manage cookie settings independently. You can choose to block, restrict, or delete cookies at browser level. Please note that doing so may affect the functionality of our Website and other websites you visit. Guidance on managing cookies in commonly used browsers can be found via the following:

- Google Chrome — Settings > Privacy and Security > Cookies and Other Site Data
- Mozilla Firefox — Options > Privacy & Security > Cookies and Site Data
- Microsoft Edge — Settings > Cookies and Site Permissions
- Apple Safari — Preferences > Privacy > Manage Website Data

For further information on managing cookies across all browsers, you may also visit www.aboutcookies.org or www.allaboutcookies.org.

6.3 Opting Out of Analytics

If you wish to prevent Google Analytics from collecting data about your visits, you may install the Google Analytics Opt-Out Browser Add-on, available at tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout.

7. Third-Party Cookies

In addition to cookies set directly by Watten Power, certain third-party services integrated into our Website may place their own cookies on your device. These services may include analytics providers, advertising networks, embedded video or mapping services, and customer support tools.

Watten Power does not have direct control over the cookies placed by third parties. We encourage you to review the privacy and cookie policies of any third-party service you encounter via our Website. We will only allow third-party cookies where you have provided the relevant consent category through our banner.

8. How Long Are Cookies Retained?

The length of time a cookie remains on your device depends on its type:

- Session cookies are temporary and are automatically deleted when you close your browser
- Persistent cookies remain on your device until their expiry date or until you delete them manually

Retention periods for specific cookies vary. Strictly necessary cookies are typically short-lived and tied to your session. Analytics and marketing cookies may persist for up to two years, depending on the provider. A full cookie declaration — listing individual cookies, their providers, and precise durations — can be made available on request or displayed via an integrated consent management platform.

9. Changes to This Cookie Policy

We review and update this Cookie Policy periodically to reflect changes in applicable law, advances in technology, and updates to our Website or services. When changes are made, we will revise the effective date at the top of this document. We encourage you to check back from time to time to remain informed about how we use cookies.

Where changes are material, we will take steps to draw them to your attention, which may include displaying a prominent notice on the Website or re-requesting your consent where required.
